

We neither forgive nor forget

4th edition – Shabnameh Revayat

News of the Day

Following nationwide student protests and a boycott of final exams, several universities issued statements saying they cannot pretend life is normal amid widespread grief, fear, and anger, stressing that what is happening to people is not just news but a deepening wound. They emphasized that, for this reason, they will not take part in the exams.

Political Prisoners

Farzad Ghadari, 40, from Noor in Mazandaran Province, is an athlete and a holder of national and international MMA championship medals. According to reports, his son Ilya was first taken hostage by agents of the Islamic Republic to force Farzad to turn himself in. After he identified himself, he was shot in the leg and arrested. To this day, there has been no information about his condition. His life is in serious danger.

Iran's Immortal Names

Marzieh Kamali (Bamari) was only 23 years old. She was from Anbarabad in Baluchistan and a medical student at Kerman University. On January 9, 2026 (19 Dey 1404), Marzieh Kamali (Bamari) was killed in Kerman after being shot directly in the lower back by agents of the Islamic Republic regime.

Voices of the Street

Condemnation of the Bloody Crackdown on Nationwide Protests by the Iranian Teachers' Union (Tehran):

The Iranian Teachers' Union Tehran condemns the violent crackdown on nationwide protests. After 47 years of corruption and repression Iranians have risen to reclaim dignity and life. The regime responded with bullets and brutality marking one of the deadliest weeks in recent history. More than 150 children and teenagers and over 10 teachers were killed by security forces. Teachers stand firmly with the people's demands for justice and freedom as a moral duty. We demand an end to the militarization of schools accountability and the immediate release of all detainees. We call on global civil society and trade unions to show solidarity and amplify Iran's voice.

The Child I Will Never See Again Justice-Seeking Mothers

Yesterday, agents of the Islamic Republic vandalized the grave of Siavash Mahmoudi. At his grave, his mother cried out: "You shot my child in the face, in his forehead. Now you've come and smashed stones into his face. I swear on Siavash's life, I will not take a single step back."

She later wrote on Instagram:

"This is not the first time Siavash's grave has been destroyed. I will continue. I will not let the blood of Iran's children be buried in silence. As long as I can, I will be the voice of our loved ones. I will not break. I will not give up. I will leave you with no honor."

